

Dear Mr. Stevenson,

I am opposed to the provision of proposed NI 31-103 which would require 'Know Your Client' forms to be kept on file for the purchase of currently exempt market securities. Specifically, I object to the collection of my intimate personal financial information by investment dealers. An active investor may deal with several if not many such dealers in a lifetime meaning that their personal information might reside in as many locations making it far less secure.

Please lean to the side of personal information security in your review of this proposed regulatory change.

*Thank you,
