

While I support streamlining and modernizing processes in the regulatory agencies, I object to giving out personal information that is nobody business especially when I am making decisions based on my financial knowledge. It should be MY choice to release my personal finances to a sales person. There is already Credit Agencies that have info on most people if not everyone that has a credit card. We do not need to mandate releasing info. We have FOIP and we need to protect personal info even more than before.

Thank You!
