

05/15/2008

Hi, I understand the need to protect the under educated investor from the unscrupulous agent, and/or to provide knowledge to the naïve investor from investing in high risk endeavors - however, I am against having the requirement to disclose one's financial information to every agent (several companies have exclusive offerings, therefore exclusive agents), presently most companies have the investor sign a release, thanks