

Hello,

As an ex-provincial employee of the Alberta Energy Department, I do hope that my experience of nearly 15 years in that arena will not be mirrored with a non-response to those of you as you sit in power of influence and supposedly represent the people of this country.

Please accept this email as my explicit rejection to having to divulge my financial details to any sales person. As with banks, I don't see why a student who barely passed their Securities course years ago is eligible to sell me mutual funds and you don't have a problem with that fact....why now would you want me to have to divulge my financials to those I select to sell to. If anything, let it be voluntary. Plus, there is always a Knowledge of Risk form that you must sign when purchasing exempt market securities. So, why are you now compounding more paperwork and more hoops to run thru again by this NI 31-103?

I know how government works...you employ 5 people who can do the jobs of three quite easily...so, is this an attempt to hire more people and call yourselves the "family" of the majority consciousness. I will never trust the government after all that I've seen within one department. Don't even get me talking about the millions of missing royalties in the Alberta tarsands!

Okay, I will be awaiting to hear if and when you will respond to this email....after all, I know first hand how government works. Prove me wrong or at least you are different than the mismanaged, corruption of the Alberta Energy ministry.

Thank you.
Wendy Rich
